KOICA

The Korea International Cooperation Agency (KOICA) is a development aid agency of the Republic of Korea which was established in 1991. KOICA's mission is to reduce poverty, promote living standards and help realize sustainable, equitable and inclusive development in developing countries. To accomplish its mission, KOICA has been actively involved in enhancing developing countries' socio-economic infrastructure and institutions, empowering and providing the people of the developing world with opportunities for better lives and improving their well-being.

CIAT(Capacity Improvement & Advancement for Tomorrow) Programs

Human Resource Development (HRD) has been one of the most important factors in Korea's escape from the vicious cycle of poverty and underdevelopment which had existed for many decades. With scarce natural resources, HRD played a vital role in Korea's development; thus, Korea has emerged as an exemplary showcase of national development powered by HRD. From its own experience Korea came to fully recognize the significance of HRD. With extensive experience and know-how in HRD, Korea contributes greatly to the international community by sharing its unique development experience with other countries.

The CIAT Program provides opportunities to participants to gain first-hand knowledge of Korea's development experience. The programs are designed to enable the participants to apply what they have learned for the development of their home countries. Since 1991, KOICA has offered about 3,400 courses to more than 53,000 participants from 173 countries. There are a wide range of topics in the Program, including public administration, economic development, science and technology, agriculture and health, etc. In order to meet the changing needs of partner countries, KOICA always strives to renovate and improve its HRD programs.
