

INTERNATIONAL LAW OF THE SEA

5 TO 9 DECEMBER 2016

Sponsored by the

SINGAPORE COOPERATION PROGRAMME

under the

SINGAPORE COOPERATION PROGRAMME TRAINING AWARD/
SMALL ISLAND DEVELOPING STATES TECHNICAL COOPERATION PROGRAMME

to be conducted by the

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF SINGAPORE
CENTRE FOR INTERNATIONAL LAW

Singapore Cooperation Programme

Singapore has provided technical assistance to other developing countries since the 1960s. As a country whose only resource is its people, Singapore believes that human resource development is vital for economic and social progress. Singapore itself has benefited from training provided by other countries and international organisations.

In 1992, the Singapore Cooperation Programme (SCP) was established to bring together under one framework the various technical assistance programmes offered by Singapore. Through the SCP, the range and number of training programmes were increased to share Singapore's development experience with other developing countries.

To date, Singapore has sponsored training courses and study visits for over 100,000 officials from more than 170 countries. The SCP is managed by the Technical Cooperation Directorate of the Singapore Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

National University of Singapore, Centre For International Law

The Centre for International Law (CIL) was established in 2009 at the National University of Singapore's (NUS) Bukit Timah Campus in response to the growing need for international law expertise, capacity-building and thought leadership in the Asia-Pacific region. It is a university-wide research centre that engages in multidisciplinary research, in collaboration with other NUS or external centres for research.

It is in the forefront of capacity-building initiatives in the Asia-Pacific region. Its focus areas of research and training include ASEAN Law and Policy; Ocean Law and Policy; Trade and Investment Law and Policy and International Dispute Resolution.

Course Objectives

This course will provide an overview of the international law of the sea and its importance to Asia. The main focus will be on the 1982 United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) and its importance as the overarching legal framework governing all activities in the oceans and seas.

By the end of the course, participants should be able to:

- Understand the importance of UNCLOS to the maintenance order in the oceans based on the rule of international law.
- Understand the dynamic processes by which the international law of the sea is developed and applied, especially in Asia.
- Understand the challenges of ocean governance in Asia and the action that should be taken at the national, regional and global levels to address these challenges.

Synopsis

The 5-days programme will focus on UNCLOS and the maritime zones that it establishes and their uses.

It also examines how UNCLOS is being adapted, modified and supplemented to meet the challenges posed by ocean issues in Asia, including the threats of piracy and maritime terrorism, military exercises and survey activities, threats to the marine environment, the management of fisheries resources, and the dangers presented by maritime disputes.

Topics to be covered include:

- Principles of International Law / 1982 UNCLOS
- High Seas
- Baselines, Islands, Rocks and Low-tide Elevations
- Internal Waters, Territorial Sea and Contiguous Zone
- Continental Shelf & Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf
- Exclusive Economic Zone
- Straits Used for International Navigation and Archipelagic States
- Maritime Boundary Delimitation
- Installations & Structures / Submarine Cables & Pipelines

- Piracy, other threats, and Regional Cooperation on Maritime Security in SE Asia
- Marine Scientific Research, Survey & Military Activities
- Marine Environmental Protection
- The Area & 1994 Implementation Agreement
- Fisheries and 1995 Fish Stocks Agreement
- Biodiversity beyond National Jurisdiction
- UNCLOS Dispute Settlement Regime
- South China Sea Disputes

Methodology

The training will be conducted in a formal lecture or classroom-style followed by question/answer and interactive discussions. Relevant case studies will be used for group discussions. Site visits to relevant agencies and related organizations will also be included to complement the participants' learning experiences.

Duration

The course will be held from
