4. SIGNIFICANCE OF THE ACTION PLAN

The action plan is to identify each country's current problems and propose appropriate solutions in order to solve these problems.

By establishing a practical action plan tailored to your country's needs, which defines across government, at national, regional and local level, the priorities for delivering the next steps of a better system, participants will have an opportunity to review their system on anti-corruption and cybercrimes investigation & prosecution in the short term. In the long term, by sharing the Action Plan with colleagues, it will be helpful for the establishment of the strategic development and judicial reform.

1. IMPLEMENTING AGENCY□ Institute of Justice (<http://www.kicc.go.kr>)

The Institute of Justice (IOJ) is the integrated education and research organization that provides the education and training for public officials assigned to the Ministry of Justice of Korea such as in the areas of Prosecution, Protection, Corrections, and Immigration etc.

Under the fundamental idea of "The Birthplace for the Advanced Legal Personnel – Together with the Nation, to the International World and to the Future" IOJ provide the most optimal form of the training service to 28,000 public officials of the Ministry of Justice so that the legal officials can be the public servants who make the contribution to the public and the nation at all times. Furthermore, it conducts research for the improvement of the administration and the enforcement of law.

The origin of this Institute was the Prison Officer's School, which was established at Hyeongeong-Dong, Seodaemun-Gu in 1951 to train correctional officers. The School was reborn to the current Institute and named as "Legal Research and Training Institute" in 1972 as a truly educational and research oriented organization for the training of all public officials of the Ministry of Justice. Meanwhile, in order to meet increasing educational demand, the Institute was moved into current office building from the old one in Suwon.

IOJ's duty is to accomplish the main role as a comprehensive training and research organization by performing research for the development of the administration of legal justice as well as for the education & training of all public officers of the Ministry of Justice, and by executing consignment training program to other public officers.

To effectively perform these functions, the Institute is organized into two department and five divisions; the Departments of Planning and Corrections Training, Divisions of Administration, Planning, General Training, Corrections Administration, Corrections Training. Independent of the two departments, the External Cooperation Center (ECC) is operated solely. ECC is in charge of Law School Training which instructs law school students regarding the practical affairs of the Prosecution and International Training Course which provides training courses to legal and senior officials from transitional and developing countries.

For the natural role and effective service performance of the IOJ, the specialists of the various fields in the IOJ are showing their excellent abilities and maintain the systematic educational system with a goal of training world-class legal personnel.

Appendix 1.

INTRODUCTION OF KOICA

is a development cooperation agency of the Republic of Korea which was established in 1991. KOICA's mission is to reduce poverty, promote living standards and help realize sustainable, equitable and inclusive development in developing countries. To accomplish its mission, KOICA has been actively involved in enhancing developing countries' socio-economic infrastructure and institutions, providing the people of the developing world with opportunities for better lives and improving their well-being.

KOICA Fellowship Program

Human Resource Development (HRD) has been one of the most important factors in Korea's escape from the vicious cycle of poverty and underdevelopment which had existed for many decades. With scarce natural resources, HRD played a vital role in Korea's development; thus, Korea has emerged as an exemplary showcase of national development powered by HRD. From its own experience Korea came to fully recognize the significance of HRD. With extensive experience and know-how in HRD, Korea contributes greatly to the international community by sharing its unique development experience with other countries.

The KOICA Fellowship Program is one of KOICA's main projects to support partner countries secure human resources for their development. The primary objective of the Fellowship Program is to share important technical skills and knowledge as well as to build capacities for sustainable socio-economic development. The program is composed of a wide range of topics, including public administration, economic development, science and technology, agriculture and health, etc. In order to meet the changing needs of partner countries, KOICA always strives to renovate and improve its Fellowship Programs.

Appendix 2.

KOICA FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM (CIAT)

KOICA has launched a brand-new name for the KOICA Fellowship Program in order to more effectively raise awareness about the program among the public and its partner countries.

In English, CIAT stands for Capacity Improvement and Advancement for Tomorrow and in Korean it means “seed (씨앗)” with hopes to contributing in the capacity development of individual fellows as well as the organizations and countries to which they belong.

The CIAT Program provides participants with opportunities to gain first-hand knowledge of Korea’s development experience. The programs are designed to enable participants to apply what they have learned for the development of their home countries. Since 1991, KOICA has offered about 4,255 courses to more than 69,981 participants from 172 countries.
