International Course on:

Agribusiness: A Tool for the Empowerment of Rural Women

Israel, 4th – 22nd March, 2018

About the Course

Background

Addressing gender equality and the empowerment of women, as well as increasing attention to economic and social development strategies within rural areas, are globally recognized as critical aspects of sustainable development. Rural women play a critical role in rural economies and societies in both developing and developed countries. Across the world, rural women have proven their commitment and resourcefulness in finding or adapting new ways to improve their own lives, as well as those of their families and communities.

The agricultural sector and food production have been among the main pillars of the Israeli economy since Israel's declaration of independence, with the investment of massive funds for continuous research and development. However, over the last few years, the number of active farmers in Israel has been drastically reduced.

There is a continuous exit of small farmers from business, due to the limitation of land and water and an ever increasing trend away from farming to other professions. Today's farmers need to adapt to this process by making the required transition from being simple producers to becoming managers of an agricultural enterprise, armed with the latest technologies and know-how, as well as an understanding of the market.

Agricultural diversification, coupled with intensive Research and Development and effective up-to-date extension services for rural farms, will prevent the transformation of additional farming lands for non-agricultural use and keep farmers and rural professions in business. As technology and intensive agricultural methods change the conditions of agricultural production, farmers need to explore other alternatives in order to remain in the rural areas. Taking into account current trends, Israel is ready to share its rich experience in agribusiness for the enhancement of rural development.

Aims

The training program aims at contributing to rural women's empowerment by exploring agricultural entrepreneurship and other farm related components of the rural economy contributing to food security, income generation and employment. In addition, the course aims to create a framework for discussion and analysis to evaluate possible adaptation of new strategies and technologies to the conditions of each participating country. Participants will be exposed to the various aspects of planning, implementation and management of small businesses in agro-industries, so that by the end of the course they will be able to:

- Use the tools of value chain analysis to elaborate growth strategies
- Improve production and productivity on farm level
- Initiate, organize, and manage small scale agribusiness projects
- Provide tools for supporting entrepreneurship in rural areas

Program Topics

The training program is jointly organized by MASHAV's professional Training Centers MCTC and MATC and will include professional lectures and visits on following subjects:

At MCTC – The Golda Meir MASHAV Carmel International Training Center:

About MASHAV

MASHAV – Israel's Agency for International Development Cooperation is dedicated to providing developing countries with the best of Israel's experience in development and planning. As a member of the family of nations, The State of Israel is committed to fulfilling its responsibility to contribute to the fight against poverty and to the global efforts to achieve sustainable development. MASHAV, representing Israel and its people, focuses its efforts on capacity building, sharing relevant expertise accumulated during Israel's own development experience to empower governments, communities and individuals to improve their own lives. MASHAV's approach is to ensure social, economic and environmental sustainable development, and is taking active part in the international community's process of shaping the Post-2015 Agenda, to define the new set of the global Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

MASHAV's activities focus primarily on areas in which Israel has a competitive advantage, including agriculture and rural development; water resources management; entrepreneurship and innovation; community development; medicine and public health, empowerment of women and education. Professional programs are based on a "train the trainers" approach to institutional and human capacity building, and are conducted both in Israel and abroad. Project development is supported by the seconding of short and long-term experts, as well as on-site interventions. Since its establishment, MASHAV has promoted the centrality of human resource enrichment and institutional capacity building in the development process – an approach which has attained global consensus.

About The Golda Meir MASHAV Carmel International Training Center (MCTC)

The Golda Meir MASHAV Carmel International Training Center (MCTC) was established in 1961 to assist in the training of women engaged in community work in the newly emerging states in Africa and Asia. Since the establishment of MCTC, some 22,500 participants from over 150 countries in Asia, Africa, Europe, Central Asia, Eastern Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, Oceania, and the Caribbean have attended over 650 capacity-building programs and workshops, and 29 International Conferences for Women Leaders, conducted in Israel.

MCTC focuses on three areas of study: Community Development, Early Childhood Education, and Organization and Management of Microenterprises, all with gender as a crosscutting issue. In each training program there are up to 30 women and men from various countries. Usually two workshops are conducted concurrently in different languages (English, French, Spanish, Russian, or Arabic). The Center is located on Mount Carmel in Haifa. The building consists of living accommodation and classrooms, as well as recreation and dining facilities. A library and a computer laboratory with internet access serve the participants. MCTC enjoys the active cooperation of a number of international organizations, governmental and non-governmental organizations and development authorities. www.mctc.org.il

About MATC

MATC - MASHAV's International Agricultural Training Center - specializes since 1963 in human capacity building and training programs in the fields of agriculture, water management, environment and rural development. MATC conducts international, regional and country specific courses as well as professional study-tours, workshops and conferences based on Israeli agricultural know-how, innovation, and development experience. Its training programs, conducted in English, Spanish, French, Russian, and Arabic, are specifically designed to improve agricultural production in developing countries, to promote food security and to create partnerships as well as ongoing international cooperation for sustainable development. MATC works in close cooperation with Israel's Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development and its Center for International Agricultural Development Cooperation – CINADCO.
